Evaluation Criteria for Proposals

Q: Applicants are expected to include at least one person from the “population of focus” in the project. Are we supposed to define the population of focus?

A: Yes. While all proposals will address persons with mental health problems experiencing health disparity within the local community around tobacco, e-cigarettes, or marijuana. Some communities may address a more specific population; members in a specific neighborhood, people within a narrow age range, women who are pregnant, etc. This will be based on community-level assessment.
